Directory of Job Oriented Training Courses in Six GAA Districts, Andhra Pradesh, India

SECTION I: INTRODUCTION

Background to the booklet: This booklet gives information about the vocational training institutes in the Andhra Pradesh and the courses offered by them. It is an outcome of the study commissioned by Mahita-Plan India, as part of its Girls Advocacy Alliance (GAA) Programme, for mapping the vocational training institutes in the State (Box 1). Mahita-Plan assigned the task of conducting the study to the Poverty Learning Foundation (PLF). The study was carried out between July and September 2019. The booklet attempts to provide complete information on JOVTs in the State in a single document.

Box 1: About the study

The Girls Advocacy Alliance (GAA) programme, a global initiative, aims to promote equal rights and opportunities for young girls and women. In India, the emphasis is on addressing the issues of child marriage and child trafficking, promoting secondary education for girls, and Job Oriented Vocational Training (JOVT) for young women. The programme works closely with Communities, Civil Society Organizations (CSOs), the Government and the Private Sector.

Lack of access to information on vocational training institutions and courses offered by them is affecting the chances of young women from availing JOVTs. There is thus a need to make information available on JOVTs. In this context, Mahita-Plan commissioned a study for mapping of vocational training institutes in the States of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana with the following objectives:

1. To identify all the training institutes run in 6 Districts of Andhra Pradesh and 9 (new) districts of Telangana; and
2. To collect detailed information on each of the courses offered by these Institutes.

The information generated through this study would be disseminated across the key stakeholders to help young women access and avail the existing opportunities for vocational training/education.

Information for the booklet: Information about VTIs and JOVTs conducted by them was collected mainly from online sources. Wherever online sources were unavailable, information was gathered from the concerned departments and institutions, at the State or District level. The information thus collected was organized and compiled into a booklet.

Purpose and objectives of the booklet: JOVTs are carried out by a wide variety of institutions/departments in the State¹. It is evident that due to the lack of coordination between State and District, these institutions are functioning in a silo mode. This situation has not changed much despite Skill India Mission's mandate to bring convergence among the various initiatives around skill training to put them under a single umbrella.

A trainee needs complete information about JOVT to be fully aware of the opportunities available; and to make informed choice of courses to take. Presently, the aspiring trainees find it difficult to access the scattered information on VTIs and JOVTs. Prospective trainees currently access the information through media, particularly newspapers, advertisements and mobilization drives by VTIs. These limitations force them to make decisions based on limited understanding of opportunities.

Although both men and women are eligible to get enrolled for most of the courses, gender stereotypes restrict young women from accessing vocational training courses other than Tailoring, Embroidery, and Beautician. This choice mainly stems from societal outlook and established gender norms. No specific efforts are being made to overcome gender stereotypes and encourage young women to avail JOVT across all the sectors.

Improved access to information for young women on the opportunities available for JOVT is an essential step in addressing this issue. Therefore, this booklet is aimed at improving information access to young women on VTIs and JOVTs.

The main objectives of the booklet are:

1. To make comprehensive information on the VTIs and JOVTs available in one document;
2. To provide greater access to information about JOVTs to young women to help them overcome barriers in accessing courses; and
3. To provide information about JOVTs to the key stakeholders, including those involved in policy and program implementation.

Use of the booklet: The booklet will serve as a useful reference document/resource book for trainees as well as other key stakeholders. Also, it can be used as an instrument in advocacy by the key stakeholders engaged in the GAA program for encouraging and motivating young women to avail and benefit from JOVTs in the State. The booklet can also be used by the State/District administration to understand the landscape of JOVTs and facilitate coordination between and across departments, and to steer vocational training/education system in a meaningful manner.

Organisation of the booklet: This booklet is organised into five sections starting with introduction. Section 2 provides an outline of the landscape of vocational education in the State. Section-3 deals with Job Oriented Vocational Trainings (JOVTs) offered under different programmes in the State. (The detailed information on each of the courses is provided in an excel format.) Section 4 presents the availability of Vocational Training Institutes in the State, and information on VTIs available in the nine operational Districts of GAA. Section 5, provides certain conclusions.

SECTION II: LANDSCAPE OF VOCATIONAL TRAINING IN ANDHRA PRADESH

SECTION III: JOB ORIENTED VOCATIONAL TRAININGS (JOVTs) IN SIX GAA DISTRICTS OF ANDHRA PRADESH

This section provides an overview of the vocational training courses offered in the six GAA districts of Andhra Pradesh. An overall list of JOVTs offered under each scheme or programme is provided here. Detailed information on each course is given in Annexures (i.e., job role, qualification, mobilisation process and career opportunities).

- The study has mapped JOVTs offered under different schemes using secondary sources of information. Information captured about the JOVTs offered by each VTI has been consolidated to arrive at overall list of courses at the state level. (Here after, the state or AP means five districts of AP.).
- At the aggregate level, 332 courses are offered in the six Girls Advocacy Alliance(GAA) districts of AP under various schemes/programmes. However, the number of courses offered under various schemes varies from district to district. Some of the courses (e.g., job roles) offered across the schemes and programmes may be the same.
- SC-Corporation, followed by CSR, DDU-GKY and PMKVY, conducts highest number of courses. Overall, SC corporation offers the JOVTs in 106 job roles.
- The least number of courses is offered by the Women Corporation.

Most of the departments and corporations of the state government have schemes/programmes related to JOVTs. The state is working towards bringing all of them under the Andhra Pradesh State Skill Development Corporation (APSSDC) which is mandated to bridge skill gaps. APSSDC's activities are aimed at imparting employable skills to its students and skilling unemployed youth for wage and self-employment.

Presently, most of the departments are devolving their funds meant for vocational training/education to APSSDC, which in turn conducts courses through selected training partners. For example, ST and Women Corporation provides funds to APSSDC for conducting vocational courses for their respective target groups.

The only exception to this is the SC Corporation which directly empanels training partners and runs courses through them. It conducts JOVTs through its training partners. In all, SC-corporation offers 106 courses. Box 3.5 gives a list of courses offered by SC Corporation.

SECTION V: CONCLUSIONS

Mahita-Plan desires to carry out this study using information from online sources. While carrying out this study, it was realised that online information is not available for some JOVTs, related to different departments/corporations in the State government. Therefore, mapping of VTIs required not only mining information from online sources but also gathering information from the concerned departments.

For bridging skill gaps, the State has two streams of initiatives: (i) enhancing the employability skills of the students³ in schools, degree colleges, ITIs and Polytechnic colleges, and Engineering colleges; and (ii) skilling and up-skilling the unemployed youth for the wage employment and self-employment. This booklet deals with initiatives about the second stream.

All schemes/programmes choose to implement JOVTs either directly in their own institutions or indirectly through Training partners. NAC and RSETI conduct courses in their institutions. Besides, they also act as a training partner for other schemes. JSS also conducts courses in its institutions. For other schemes, the courses are conducted using training partners.

Every department in the State has either started or is planning to start JOVTs through their respective corporations and allied institutions. Information about JOVTs initiated under various departments is not available online. So, the study gathered information from the departments. Given the time and resources, we collected information only from SC/ST/women corporations. Mahita-Plan can explore the possibility of collecting information from other departments.

All the state government departments and institutions provide funding to APSSDC for conducting vocational training courses. APSSDC implements JOVTs through training partners. This arrangement is observed in the case of ST and BC corporations and /MEMPA. However, SC Corporation continues to implement JOVTs, without linking to APSSDC, through selected training partners.

Among other arrangements for implementing JOVTs in the state, SEEDAP is responsible for implementation of DDU-GKY, NAC in the construction sector, and RSETI for promotion of self-employment and enterprises in rural areas.

The approved list of courses for each scheme/programme/department is available. From these lists of approved courses, only selected courses are offered every year based on demand by the students. Thus, not all the approved courses are implemented each year. The JOVTs included in this report are those offered in 2018-19, and that are mentioned in work orders issued up to September 2019.

³The State government has created APSSDC, the state level arrangement for NSDC.

Generally, VTIs submit proposals seeking work order only after the requisite number (i.e., more than 15) of students are enrolled. The course would be kept on hold till VTIs get the minimum requisite number (VTIs can seek work order only for courses that are approved).

Renewal of old VTIs or the selection of new ones takes place once in a year. Work orders for the VTIs selected are given on a quarterly basis, which would be the basis for VTI to initiate another batch of students. There is a possibility for a change of courses to be implemented by VTIs with the issue of each work order (i.e., once in a quarter), as a proposal requesting for courses would come from the VTI. While sanction of VTIs is the responsibility of State-level officials, monitoring is done at the District level by the concerned officials. Work orders issued up to September 2019 were referred to in preparing this booklet. Therefore, periodic updating of information on courses is required.

In a few cases, the online data is not updated and hence we included data available online for the previous year, i.e., 2018-19. Thus, there may be change of VTIs, address of location, etc. So, the data must be used with caution. GAA representatives need to regularly follow-up and update changes to make the information relevant.

To conclude:

- Since we have relied mostly on online information, a range of other initiatives might have been missed out in this booklet.
- There are many other institutions that are running paid or free courses. Some of them include Lions Clubs, Red Cross Society, Rotary Club, Private banks and Financial institutions, and private VTIs. The study could not cover these initiatives as online information on this is not available.
- Open schooling system also offers vocational courses, which are not included in this report.
- Added to this, many informal mini-VTIs are also functioning at micro level (i.e., small towns). In case this information also is to be included, detailed mapping exercise is to be done at sub-district and District levels.
- We suggest that regular updating of the information furnished in this report be done by approaching the respective departments.
